Highest Inland Building.

Cincinnati, O., June 26.—With former President William H. Taft and a number of other prominent guests in attendance, the magnificent new building of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce was formally dedicated today. The dedication exercises were preceded by a parade of the members from the old building to the new.

The new building, which is located at Fourth and Vine streets, is said to be the highest inland building on the American continent. The tower portion of the building consists of thirty-eight stories, four of which are below street level. The total height from sub-basement floor to the top of the tower is 535 feet, while the height above the street level is 495 feet. The tower is surmounted by a lantern fourteen feet high.

The building contains 5,175,000 cubic feet of space and 216,000 square feet of rentable area. The cost of the building alone was $2,500,000, while the total investment, including the lot, amounts to over $3,000,000. The Chamber of Commerce will occupy the second and third floors of the building.

WEST DEFENDS HIMSELF

SAYS HIS COURSE IN RATE FIGHT WAS THE PROPER ONE.

Oklahoma City, Ok., June 23.—"That members of the House investigating committee never tried a rate case in court, is probably responsible for the position taken in their report touching this department," was the only comment Attorney General West would offer upon the House committee's expressions touching the 2c fare cases given to the public yesterday. The Attorney General explains that the objectors do not draw a rational distinction between protection under a temporary injunction and no protection under a permanent injunction.

If you Value Your Eyesight, see An Expert Optometrist I have spent 20 years preparing myself to perfect the refraction of the eye. My modern equipment, backed by this long experience is your Guarantee of Satisfaction. A. D. COON, Ramsey's Drug Store, Ada, Okla

When the stipulation was made to let the Oklahoma case abide the result in other state cases then pending, the attorney general says, he obtained a concession involving rebate checks to be given the purchaser of tickets, whereas had he lost on the permanent injunction as did other states, there would have been no rebate which the people could collect providing Oklahoma is successful. As it was, the railroads made no agreement to rebate in the other states and to that extent those states are the losers. In Oklahoma, he adds, the state was not only saved the expense of taking the evidence, but the people will be reimbursed to the extent of their coupons when the state is victorious.

Meeting of Iowa Bar.

Sioux City, Ia., June 26.—The nineteenth annual meeting of the Iowa State Bar association was opened here today with a large and representative attendance of lawyers and jurists. Lieutenant Governor Harding welcomed the visitors and Judge Martin J. Wade of Iowa City responded. Another feature of the day's program was a paper on "The Life and Public Service of James Wilson," by Judge Walter I. Smith of Council Bluffs. Judge Horace E. Deemer, of the Iowa supreme Court, will deliver the president's address tomorrow, taking as his subject, "Representative Government."

WHY SUFFRAGETTES GO ON THE WARPATH
Vienna, June 26.—The real reason for the suffragette outrages in England has been discovered, lecturing in the Vienna Urania, Dr. Julius Pokorny today explained why modern England afforded such fertile ground for "this extraordinary physical epidemic." The fact that similar political and economic conditions existed in other countries led the professor to conclude that "the true origin of this fanatical barbarism is to be found in the ancient civilization of the British Isles."
"Among the original inhabitants of England," he said, "women occupied a domineering position. She spent her life in boundless liberty. Now, this original population, in contrast with that of the rest of Western Europe, has managed to remain comparatively pure, whereas there has been constant retrogression of the Anglo-Saxon stock. In London, for instance, only one-seventh of the people are blond. It is no wonder therefore, that 1,500 years of Anglo-Saxon rule has not sufficed to keep back instincts which for more than 4,000 years were permitted to develop unhindered among the original inhabitants."
Dr. Pokorny finished by warning his hearers against "the terrible consequences of women's franchise," which he predicted, would drive every state into socialism and anarchy.

Woodard has given up his fight for his school killing bill. He could not get enough signatures for the August election and although he claimed that the governor was enough interested that he would call a special election, he would not try to set up another petition until the primaries of next year. Very considerate of him since he was unable to get them anyway. His enthusiasm has evidently been dampened by the want of the support he thought he would get and didn't.

Elks of South Dakota.
Mitchell, S. D., June 26.—Large delegations of Elks, many of them accompanied by bands, trooped into this city today for the annual state convention and reunion of their order. The visitors found the arrangements for their reception and entertainment to be of the most perfect and elaborate character. The business session of the city was profusely decorated in purple and white, the official colors of the order. The initial session of the convention devoted to the exchange of greetings and the opening formalities, was held today, with Grand Exalted Ruler Mills presiding. The program extends over tomorrow and provides for numerous features of entertainment.

HOUSE PASSES NINE NEW BILLS

INTENDED TO COVER CASES REPORTED BY INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE.

Oklahoma City, June 26.—The house of representatives Wednesday passed nine bills by the Maxey investigating committee, which were introduced Monday. All of the bills were intended to remedy conditions disclosed by the investigations.

The most important, giving the governor power to hear complaints against public officers, to summon witnesses and examine them under oath to punish for contempt, had a narrow escape from defeat, getting by with the bare constitutional majority of fifty.

Representative Glasco led the fight on this bill, on the grounds that it, in part, did exactly what both the third and fourth legislatures had refused to do at the governor's own request—give the governor power to entertain and try complaints against county officials.

"We have emphatically gone on record against extending gubernatorial supervision to complaints against county officials," said Mr. Glasco, "and I cannot escape the conclusion that the general terms of this bill would give him that power." Speaker Pro Tempore Emanuel joined in the protest against the form of the bill.

Representative H. H. Smith defended the bill, which he said merely vitalized the constitutional obligation put on the governor to see that the laws of the state were enforced.

Speaker Maxey left the chair to assist in the defense of the bill, and made the closing remarks in its behalf. The constitution required the governor to see that the laws were enforced, he said, and the legislature should give him power to do this duty.

From remarks made by the speaker and Mr. Smith, it was evident that Governor Cruce, when testifying before the investigating committee, had complained of his inability to enforce the laws without power to investigate complainants or enforce attendance of witnesses.

The bill applies especially to state officers of the executive branch.

The Glasco amendment, that the terms of the bill should not extend to hearing complaints against county officers, was defeated, and the bill passed on roll call by a vote of 50 to 25.

The next bill passed requires all public officers, under penalty of removal to give personal attention to the details of their office. There was some debate, in which it was called to mind that Mr. Curtis had unsuccessfully attempted to get such a bill through the legislature at the regular session.

The necessity of such legislation, said members of the investigating committee, had been made more apparent by the probes of the committee into departments sadly neglected by the head officer.

A third bill imposes strict regulations around the printing and distribution of hunting licenses, the object being to guarantee against the state being defrauded by the sale of licenses not regularly issued and accounted for.

The six other bills plainly fix the number of employees of various state departments, including the attorney-general, corporation commission, school land office, makes the specific appropriations necessary to pay the salary of such employees and prohibits the hiring of others for regular work out of contingent funds.

The Durant resolution to appoint a committee of three to draft resolutions in behalf of section 18 of the coal mining bill, which the miners have referred, was defeated after some debate in which all the arguments pro and con undershot were threshed over for about the fifth time this session.

LEGISLATURE WILL ADJOURN SATURDAY

Oklahoma City, Ok., June 25.—Both houses of the legislature are bracing themselves for final adjournment Saturday. By a vote of 23 to 13 the senate adopted the Tucker resolution, fixing 6 p. m. of that date as the hour, and the House concurred.

If the resolution stands it means death to the general revenue bill which is pending in conference, since revenue measures must be passed finally five or more days prior to adjournment. One of the points of difference between the houses is over the increase in the gross revenue tax of one-half of 1 per cent, as applied to oil, gas and coal. The conferees named before the recess reported to the houses this morning they were unable to reach a decision. They were discharged and the new committee on the part of the senate is Senators Franklin, Memminger and Jones, and on the part of the House is Mr. Curry Mr. Durant and Mr. Mabon.

Charges of bad faith on the part of the House were made by Senator Carpenter in discussing the Tucker adjournment resolution. It developed that in a conference meeting on the general appropriation bill the House members declared they would agree to no action until the senate voted on the new bills offered by the house. This means the measures presented by the house investigating committee, nine of which were passed in the House on final roll call today. The bills cover defects the committee found during its inquiries concerning state departments.

Senator Carpenter said he was a member of the committee adjusting the differences before the recess on the Tucker resolution, and that it was specifically intended that no new business would be considered. He represented what has been termed "the House gag rule." Senator Redwine declared that his understanding was the same, and that he was adverse to considering any business save that left on the calendars at the hour of recess.

WANT FRAME AND MORRIS TO RESIGN

The public interest would be better served if Lon Frame and Eugene F. Morris were to serve their connections as members of the state board of affairs, in the opinion of the house investigating committee as expressed in its report to the legislature Wednesday. While no specific charges are made against the two members of the board, still it is stated that "after a consideration of all the evidence heard in this investigation and the circumstances surrounding numerous transactions of the board, it is our candid opinion that the public interest would be best served by a change in the personnel as indicated."

The two members mentioned, with E. B. Howard, have composed the board of affairs since the incoming of the present state administration. The appointments of Howard and Morris were confirmed by the senate, but there is a controversy as to whether Frame has been so confirmed, according to the report. The matter of Frame's confirmation is now pending in the supreme court.

The house committee incorporates the minority report of a senate committee which was submitted on January 6, in which Frame and Morris were severely criticised for their official acts in certain transactions. With two exceptions, the house committee concurs in the report of the senate committee. One exception is in regard to a contract, with C. O. Bunn, wherein he was to receive additional compensation for extra work on the state code, and the other is a contract for electrical machinery at the state university, to both of which the house committee gives its approval.

wool and free sugar was even more complete than these figures indicate, for in the three days of vigorous debating of the subject, not one word was uttered to indicate that either Senators Newlands or Walsh or, for that matter, any of the other senators, who voted against free sugar and wool, would follow the two Louisiana senators in opposition to the action of the caucus.

From this attitude of the democratic senators, it is now believed that the bill will go through the senate with but the two Louisiana votes cast against it, or against any of the provisions adopted by the caucus, while there is prospect of gaining one or more Progressive senators for the bill

An adaption from the famous problem drama, "WHY GIRLS LEAVE HOME"

In this picture we see the Biograph at it's best. It is a story of today and anywhere—the story of the unsophisticated girl whose head is turned by a smooth stranger who leaves her home and parents to go with him, only to discover that there is another of polish and worldly wise, with whom her newly found friend and supposed protector is really in love. There are many strong situations, pathos and thrill that is exceedingly touching and dramatic. In this sermon told in pictures.

Moike Cassidy is the mournful loser of a brand new wheel which was stolen from him Tuesday evening. He had made one round trip to and from home and left it outside Ramsey's drug store. It has not been seen since, and naturally Moike has no very high opinion of the gent who swiped it.

The De Sota has secured two splendid pictures for this evening. "When Luck Changes," is a Flying A featuring Chas. Whitley, Vivian Rich and others. A powerful western drama. "The Queen of the Sea Nymphs" is something entirely out of the ordinary made along the coast of California, and features a wonderful child swimmer.

This evening the Majestic will present a two reel drama. It is called the "Little Tease" and is taken from the famous drama "Why Girls Leave Home." In this drama is shown an unsophisticated girl who is lured from home by a smooth tongued villain and the situations that grew out of it. Coming tomorrow, "A Change of Administrations," a political play.

The latest addition to the legal fraternity of Ada is E. N. Jones who has opened an office in the Rollow building. Mr. Jones is by no means a stranger in Pontotoc county, having lived a number of years at Vancoss, and he will probably be heard from as time passes and he becomes established.

TULSA HAS LITTLE CZAR LIKE ADA'S

Tulsa, Okla., June 26.—If the people of Tulsa desire an opportunity to vote on the Des Moines non-partisan plan for electing city officials it will be necessary for them to resort to the initiative as the petition signed by 175 representative citizens and taxpayers was turned down with a dull and sickening thud when it came up for official consideration yesterday morning. Mayor Wooden evidently expressed the sentiment of the entire commission when he said that he was opposed to the plan and felt that he was well within his official rights when he declined to allow the proposed amendment to be submitted without an initiative petition.

The mayor's ostensible excuse was that if the petition were granted the commissioners would be compelled to submit any other petitions that might be asked for by any number of petitioners and thus would be opened up an endless opportunity for submitting

Why Stand for Such Agony?

It is Entirely Unnecessary that Anyone Suffer with Boils, Carbuncles, Abscesses and Other Eruptive Sores.

Every spring a host of people are the picture of woe; they suffer the intense agony of carbuncles, boils, erysipelas and other extremely painful and often dangerous abscesses. All they require is to Get Your Blood Purified With S.S.S. and You Won't be Tortured Like This. get the stagnation out of their blood with S.S.S. This wonderful remedy works on the principle of stimulating cell growth, of enabling the blood to quickly infuse new life into the tissues, to stop decay, to prevent the formation of those accumulations of broken down cells that rapidly multiply into the form of carbuncles and other eruptions.

Science cannot explain just why certain elements in the blood feed the bones, others nourish the hair roots, and so on. And it is this same mysterious action of S.S.S. that attacks all diseased spots, drives away all germs, heals all sores and supplants the activity of disease germs with the powerful healing action of leucocytes. Remarkable testimonials have been written that prove beyond question there is no blood disease but what can be cured by S.S.S. And in all those cases that were treated with mercury, iodides, arsenic, copper and other minerals with no permanent effect, the most astonishing recoveries have been made by S.S.S.

There is not a blood taint of any nature that can remain in a system fortified by this most wonderful remedy, for it is absolutely pure and contains only those elements that the blood naturally assimilates, and which the tissues gratefully accept. It agrees with the most delicate stomach, even in those cases where the use of strong drugs has so weakened the digestive system that medicine cannot be given. Get a $1.00 bottle of S.S.S. at any drug store and thus be assured of a complete cure of any eruptive blood disease. To Study Social Conditions Abroad.

New York, June 26.—The first of several parties organized to tour Europe this summer for the observation and study of social and industrial conditions abroad, sailed from here today on the steamship Tietgen. The trip is made under the auspices of New York University and is under the direction of Dr. Edward Ewing Pratt, lecturer on statistics in that institution. The party will visit the chief centres of Germany and the Scandinavian countries. Investigations will be made of city planning, municipal ownership, housing, penal and vagrant colonies, social problems, private philanthropy, public relief, children's work and juvenile courts.

A second party, also under the auspices of New York University, will make a similar tour, but will concern itself chiefly with labor problems, labor unions, social insurance, labor exchanges and industrial betterment in stores and factories. Still another party, headed by Prof. S. W. Gilman, head of the School of Commerce in the University of Wisconsin, will sail on the steamship Patricia Saturday on a similar mission of investigation. The Gilman party will tour England, Belgium, Germany and Switzerland and will confine its investigation to the methods of work in the great industrial plants in those countries.

The Daughter of David Kerr

By Harry King Tootle

Illustrations by Ray Walters

Copyright, 1913, by A. C. McClung & Co.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Gloria Kerr, a motherless girl who has spent most of her life at school, arrives at her father's home in Belmont. David Kerr is the political boss of the town and is anxious to prevent his daughter learning of his real character.

CHAPTER II—Kendall, representing the Chicago packers, is negotiating with Judge Gilbert, Kerr's chief adviser, for a valuable franchise. They fear the opposition of Joe Wright, editor of the reform paper.

CHAPTER III—Kerr asks the assistance of Judge Gilbert in introducing Gloria to Belmont society and promises to help him put through the packers' franchise and let him have all the graft.

CHAPTER IV—Gloria meets Joe Wright at the Gilberts. It appears they are on intimate terms, having met previously in a touring party in Europe.

CHAPTER V—Gloria twists Wright on his failure to keep an engagement to meet her in Paris. He explains that the death of his mother prevented his going to Paris.

CHAPTER VI—The Gilberts invite Gloria to stay with them pending the furnishing of the Kerr home.

CHAPTER VII—One society bud who refused to meet Gloria is forced to do so when her father is made to feel Kerr's power.

CHAPTER VIII—Wright begins his fight against the proposed franchise in the columns of his paper, the Belmont News.

CHAPTER IX—Kerr, through his henchmen, exerts every influence to hamper Wright in the publication of his paper.

CHAPTER X—Gloria realizes she is not being received by the best society and is unhappy. She takes up settlement work.

CHAPTER XI—Kerr and his lieutenants decide to buy Kerr's paper and ask the editor to meet them at Gilbert's office.

CHAPTER XII—Wright in his desire to keep from Gloria knowledge of her father's position, avoids her during the fight. Gloria is piqued.

CHAPTER XIII—Calling at Gilbert's office to solicit a donation Gloria meets Wright. He proposes and is accepted while waiting to be called into the conference.

CHAPTER XIV—Wright refuses to sell his paper and declares he will fight to a finish.

CHAPTER XV—The Belmont News appears with a bitter attack on Gloria. Gloria calls Wright a coward and refuses to listen to any explanation from him.

CHAPTER XVI—Broken-hearted, Gloria decides to plunge more deeply into settlement work.

CHAPTER XVII—She calls on a sick girl of the underworld named Ella.

CHAPTER XVIII—She learns for the first time that her father is the head of a notorious gang of political grafters.

"Open this door, I say," came from the man without as he pounded on the door ominously, "or I'll crack you over the head."

Gloria understood that there was no time to temporize. She must do something and that quickly. Close by where she stood next the bed, and on the side away from the door, was Little Ella's trunk. Behind it on hooks hung a number of garments, and on a chair were more clothes. It was the only chance and Gloria took it.

How she ever managed to get him, a dead weight, across the intervening space and safely stowed behind the trunk she never knew. She dragged, she hauled, she pulled, she rolled, and the forlorn hope that she would save him yet gave her strength. As she snatched skirts from the hooks and all the clothing from the chair to pile upon him, the pounding upon the door became more and more vindictive. The girl was out of breath, but as she bent over the prostrate form of the man she loved, she managed to gasp:

"Joe, listen to me. If you can hear me, dear, listen. Don't stir, don't you hear me, Joe?" But he was deaf to all entreaties. Seeing this was so, she turned to Little Ella: "Get him to go away. Offer him anything, promise him anything. I'll do it; only keep that man on the other side of that door."

"There's at least two of 'em."

"That doesn't matter—a thousand—it's all the same. Get them to go away."

This was easier said than done, but Little Ella was willing to make the effort.

"You get away from that door, an' leave me alone."

"Open this door, you she-devil," threatened the besieger, "or I'll—"

And then interrupted another voice with a suggestion that made Gloria grow faint.

"Aw! Let's bust it in. He's in there all right."

"Let 'er go," answered the first one.

Then came the heavy thuds as the men threw themselves against the door. The knocking at the gate in "Macbeth" had no more portentous sound in the play than had this attack upon her stronghold to Gloria. She felt all the nervousness of troops under fire that must remain inactive awaiting orders. There was nothing she could do but wait until the door was battered down.

This was not long in happening. As she stood in front of the trunk nervously twisting her handkerchief in her hands, at one last mighty effort the bolt yielded, the door flew open and two men stumbled into the room. Little Ella recognized them both instantly. They were Buck Kelly and Turkey Ryan, notorious denizens of the underworld. If ever there were two vicious-looking cutthroats, these men answered their descriptions. To make their ruffianly appearance worse they bore the marks of their recent encounter. Kelly's left eye had swelled almost closed, and Ryan had a long cut across his cheek where Wright's ring had left its mark with a slashing blow. He had done even more damage than this, but these showed the plainest. Needless to say, their tempers had not been sweetened by the episode.

"You Can't Fool Us With That Soft Soap Talk."

"Now, damn you—" Ryan began savagely.

"Stop!" Gloria commanded. "What are you doing here?"

Until she spoke they had not seen her, and both men were taken much aback. To find a lady there was something they had not expected.

"What the—" Ryan gasped, but checked himself and then continued in a slightly more respectful tone. "I begs yer pardon, miss, but what are you doin' here?"

"That's none of your business. You clear out, both of you."

This encouraged Little Ella to take her part in the discussion, which she did with her most strident tones.

"What do youse mean, buttin' into here? Beat it, you two. I'm a lady, an' when I have a lady friend a visitin' me they ain't no place for bums. On yer way."

It was not this tirade which had the most effect upon them. Both quailed before Gloria, who stood eyeing them sternly. Then they looked at each other, and without a word of apology shambled out into the hall.

CHAPTER XX.

If Gloria believed that she had put to flight for all time such gentlemanly assassins as Mr. Kelly and Mr. Ryan, her feeling of triumph did not last long. As the door into the hall was still open she did not dare make a move in Wright's direction. She determined to close the door and pull the washstand in front of it, wedging it under the knob, before trying further to succor the injured man. When she walked toward the door, it again framed the forms of Ryan and Kelly. As a result of a short conference just out of earshot, they had decided to return and get their man.

"What do you want?" Her heart sank.

"We're lookin' fer a man," Kelly snarled.

"And he come into this room, too," Ryan added doggedly. "We don't want to make you uncomfortable, lady, but we gotta git that man."

The way he said it made Gloria feel that he meant business. All she could do was play for time and pray for Mrs. Hayes to return.

"There's no man here," she explained in her most winning manner. "You can see that plainly for yourself. I came over from the mission to take care of this sick woman. You are only making her worse by bursting into her room in such a rude fashion. Please go out gently; she must have it perfectly quiet."

Turkey Ryan so far forgot himself in the presence of his betters as to grin at this explanation.

"We don't want to have to make you give 'im up."

This threat had an unpleasant sound. Hitherto the girl had not feared for her own safety, but his surly remark frightened her. The one thing that kept her steadfast was the thought that she was protecting the man she had loved; yes, the man she now loved more than she ever had. She did not know how he happened to be there; she did not know how he regarded her; she only knew that she loved him, that she would give her life a sacrifice to save him.

Ryan next appealed to Little Ella. "Ella, that guy come in here. Where is he? We ain't goin' to be scared by any fool girl. She don't know who wants him. Now give 'im up."

"Don't say a word," Gloria told her. "You gotta stick by us, Ella. This ain't no ordinary job."

At Ryan's injunction to stick by him, Little Ella seemed to waver.

"Don't you fergit who yer friends are. Who keeps you from bein' jugged? Mike Noonan. Who lets you stay here when you can't pay, an' feeds you? Mike Noonan."

"That's so. He has been good to Gloria was quick to catch the note of indecision. "But now I'm going to take care of you."

"Yes, goin' to, goin' to," sneered Kelly. "You know what church promises is. Don't you fergit we gotta stan' together down here, all of us."

It was the old, old appeal of class to serve a selfish end.

"Yes, that's true. I don't want to say anything, but—"

Ryan immediately pressed the advantage he thought he had gained.

"This is yer chance, Ella. You know what she'd say to you if you was in her house. Are you with us? I'll see you git yours."

It was a moment when a man's life was at stake. Gloria believed that if the woman told and they tore Wright from her she might never see him alive again. She had prayed silently for help to come, but she was still alone. Already she was giving up hope from that quarter and was conscious that upon her own efforts in all probability the very life of the man she loved would depend. To add to her anguish was the fear that he might regain consciousness and betray himself by a moan.

Now it all depended upon Little Ella. It had been a clever stroke, that of Ryan's, asking her how she would be treated in this woman's home. Against this appeal to class prejudice Gloria had not scored.

"I'll tell," said the woman.

The two men looked at each other and smiled.

"Stop!" cried Gloria, looking not at the men, but at the girl who lay pale and trembling upon the bed. "Do you remember what you said a while ago? What you accused me of? You swore that I hadn't loved. Even to my sorrow you shall have proof of it now that I do. The very man whom I'm defending from these bullies is the one man on earth I love." Ryan and Kelly looked at each other in amazement. "You shall see if you loved more than I. You've gone through fire and storm for a man? I'll do no less. If need be, I'll die for this man—here and now—because I love him." The fire died out of her eyes. She stretched out her hands to Ella pathetically and begged humbly, "My whole heart's happiness is here. Are you going to help them try to take him from me?"

The woman, a creature of impulse, was moved.

"You'd better give it up, Turkey. I ain't goin' to let you touch that man."

"Ah, you're a woman," sighed Gloria. "You know a woman's heart."

"Nix on that love spiel, Ella," commanded Ryan. "This ain't no valentine party, lady. You can't fool us with that soft-soap talk. We gotta carry out the boss' orders. Buck, look in that closet."

Ryan recognized that the time for action had come. On his side he had the overwhelming brute force which would enable him to do as he pleased. Kelly had turned to look into the closet when he was stopped by Gloria's outburst. What Ryan had said had reminded her of her own power.

"Stand where you are, you infamous thugs! Must I tell you the truth to be obeyed? If you are above the law, I am higher still. Mike Noonan could have told you who I am. You speak of your boss, then learn the truth."

"What yer givin' us?" jeered Ryan as he advanced toward the place where Wright lay hidden.

"Stand back," she cried. "I am Gloria Kerr."

The two men looked at each other in astonishment, and Little Ella sat
